CHRISTMAS TREE, WREATH FIREPROOFING
OFFERED FOR UM OFFICES, RESIDENTS

MISSOULA--

The University of Montana Physical Plant Department is providing a free Christmas tree and wreath fireproofing service for University offices and campus dormitory and married student housing residents.

The service is offered to make trees and wreathes flame resistant in compliance with state fire regulations. Interested persons are asked to tag their trees and deliver them to Physical Plant Building No. 32. The treated trees may be claimed the following day.

According to Herb Torgrimson, manager of the UM Physical Plant Department Safety Security Division, no tree fires have occurred at UM in the 10 years the service has been available.

"The only fires that have occurred were from occupants leaving lighted candles burning in an unoccupied room," Torgrimson said.
